Section Two: The Executive's Budget Proposal

Notes on abbreviations:

BY = budget year (year for which the budget proposals are being made)

BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year

BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Note 1: The Open Budget Survey research process was carried out over a 12-month period and the final version of the Open Budget Questionnaires reflect decisions made after multiple rounds of discussions between Survey researchers, peer reviewers, and the International Budget Partnership (IBP) (in several countries these decisions also considered comments received from governments). When peer reviewers or governments agreed with the answers provided by researchers, they often provided no comment. Thus for many questions, the section in the questionnaire that should contain peer reviewer comments is left blank. However, if the government did not provide any comments to a question (because it did not dispute the answer), the section within the questionnaire that is meant to reflect government comments specifies the answer that the government agreed with (by default).

Since the IBP continued its discussions with the researchers even after receiving peer reviewer and government comments, for some questions these discussions resulted in a mutual decision to change the answers, even if the peer reviewers and governments agreed with the original answer provided by the researcher. Such changes may have happened as a result of:

1. A more consistent application of the Survey methodology;
2. New information identified by the researcher or by IBP that had a bearing on the answer for a particular question; or
3. Decisions made to ensure cross-country comparability of answers.

For more information on these changes for any question please write to info@internationalbudget.org.

Section Three: The Budget Process

The Budget Process
Executive's Formulation of the Budget
66. How far in advance of the release of the budget is the day of its release known? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> The release date is set in permanent law. The executive announces the release date at least two months in advance. The executive announces the release date less than two months but more than two weeks in advance. 67. Does the executive release to the public its timetable for preparation of the executive's budget proposal (that is, a document setting deadlines for submissions from other government entities, such as line ministries or subnational government, to the ministry of finance or what ever central government agency is in charge of coordinating the budget's formulation)? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Yes, a detailed timetable is released to the public. Since 2007, a budgetary timetable has been in place. Although efforts have been observed, for example with the 2009 budget, enacted before January 1, 2009, this timetable is generally not observed and there are still excessive delays in the budget preparation. Peer Reviewer Two Comment: Researcher Response: I agree with Peer Reviewer One's comment. According to my discussion with the Ministry of Finance technical staff, the delays have been confirmed but I do not remember the information that would argue in favor of answering "d." However, this information leads me to answer "c." It seems to me that answer "c" would be more appropriate than "d," because even though the executive does not comply with the budgetary timetable, at least it does send the draft budget law to the legislative body before the beginning of the budget year. For this reason, "d" seems inappropriate to me. The draft budget law for fiscal year 2010 was sent to Parliament on October 13, 2009. The President of the National Assembly submitted it to the Finance, Budget and Public Accounting Committee for review via Note 448/PAN/SG/09 of October 15, 2009. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.	C

Article 154 of the Constitution establishes the requirements for appointing the President of the Supreme Court. It stipulates that "he is appointed by decree of the President of the Republic after the approval of the President of the Assembly." But the article is silent on the conditions under which he may be dismissed. This was made evident when the former president was dismissed without consulting the National Assembly.

According to Article 155 of the Constitution of the Republic of Chad, "Members of the Supreme Court may not be dismissed. They remain in their positions until admission to retirement, unless they are convicted of a misdemeanor or felony or unless they resign or are permanently unable to hold office (due to death, disability, etc)."

Additional Comments:

The only observable changes are the result of splitting the Citation line and/or comments into two as opposed to one in the 2008 questionnaire. Most of the questions do not fit Chad's national context. As a result, some answers are rather vague.

One of the difficulties lies in the ability to find the exact dates when the documents used for this survey are released to the public. The result of this difficulty was that we used the official publication dates instead of the requested dates.

This is the case for "Rapports trimestriels d'exécution du budget de l'Etat" (the quarterly government budget execution reports), "Notes de présentation du budget de l'Etat" (the presentation notes to the government budget) submitted to the National Assembly, the special oil revenue accounts published on the site of the Collège de Contrôle et de Surveillance des Revenus Pétroliers (CCSRP) (the government body in charge of overseeing oil revenues), etc. We also encountered difficulties with the in-person meetings because most of the people questioned did not want to be quoted.

Despite all of this, it should be said that the changes in terms of publishing information on government finances and the other resources of the government of Chad are rather appreciable. They are very positive compared to previous years. This is the result of the work of a series of actors, but also of the statements and political actions over the last few years against corruption and the embezzlement of public funds.
