Notes on abbreviations:
BY = budget year (year for which the budget proposals are being made)
BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year
BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Note 1: The Open Budget Survey research process was carried out over a 12-month period and the final version of the Open Budget Questionnaires reflect decisions made after multiple rounds of discussions between Survey researchers, peer reviewers, and the International Budget Partnership (IBP) (in several countries these decisions also considered comments received from governments). When peer reviewers or governments agreed with the answers provided by researchers, they often provided no comment. Thus for many questions, the section in the questionnaire that should contain peer reviewer comments is left blank. However, if the government did not provide any comments to a question (because it did not dispute the answer), the section within the questionnaire that is meant to reflect government comments specifies the answer that the government agreed with (by default).

Since the IBP continued its discussions with the researchers even after receiving peer reviewer and government comments, for some questions these discussions resulted in a mutual decision to change the answers, even if the peer reviewers and governments agreed with the original answer provided by the researcher. Such changes may have happened as a result of:

1. A more consistent application of the Survey methodology;
2. New information identified by the researcher or by IBP that had a bearing on the answer for a particular question; or
3. Decisions made to ensure cross-country comparability of answers.

For more information on these changes for any question please write to info@internationalbudget.org.
The Executive’s Budget Proposal

Estimates for the Budget Year and Beyond

1. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by administrative unit (that is, by ministry, department, or agency)?

   - a. All expenditures are classified by administrative unit.
   - b. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but some small units are not shown separately.
   - c. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but a significant number of units are not shown separately.
   - d. No expenditures classified by administrative unit are presented.
   - e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Interviews:
- with the Chef de Bureau et le Chef de Division de la Direction de Préparation et de Suivi du Budget du Ministère du Budget (the Office Director and the Division Chief of the Directorate of Budget Preparation and Monitoring in the Ministry of the Budget), June 18, 23 and 26, 2009.
- with the cabinet du Ministre du Budget (staff of the Minister of the Budget) in August, 2009;
- on September 15, 2009, with theAttaché de bureau de l'Intendance et le Chef de la Division “Synthèse” de la Direction de Préparation et de Suivi du Budget du Ministère du Budget (Attaché of the Office of Administrative Management and the Chief of the "Synthesis" Division of the Directorate of Budget Preparation and Monitoring in the Ministry of the Budget), and with the Coordonnateur de la Cellule d’Etudes Financières et Budgétaires du Cabinet du Ministre du Budget (Coordinator of the Financial and Budgetary Studies Unit of the office of the Minister of the Budget).

Comment:

The “Projet de loi des Finances portant budget de l’Etat pour l’exercice...” - le Budget de l’Exécutif (the draft budget law on the government budget for fiscal year...” - the executive’s budget) is a “document for internal use.” This is a tradition which was reinforced by the reactions of the national deputies during the “Transition” in 2006, and after that, in 2007-2008. Based on the fact that the Constitution makes the National Assembly the “Budget Authority,” the national deputies accused the executive of breaching the law by holding a press conference or briefing on the budgetary projections. They argued that he did not have the authority to speak about the budget before the legislature adopted it.

Comment:
The evolution that can be noted here since the OBI 2008 research cycle is that the current reform is now taking into account the issue of the budget’s exhaustiveness, in particular regarding foreign contributions. According to a Ministry of the Budget official, in the past, the difficulty was due to the difference in timetables and procedures, direct relations with certain sectoral ministries, etc. Since August 2009, donors have apparently achieved a certain harmonization and we hope that from now on the Plate-forme de Gestion de l’Aide et de l’Investissement - PGAI (Aid and Investment Management Platform) at the Ministry of Planning may have rather complete and reliable data about foreign contributions.

Comment:
When discussing tax revenue, the Minister makes no essential detailed estimates and does not illustrate the essential aspects of distribution.

Researcher Response to this Question was “c”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: After examining the press conference I do not see how some analysis can be seen as present; there are no distributional details whatsoever. A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.”

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because I had, in other terms, the same comment as Peer Reviewer Two, but my answer "c" takes into account the fact that the press conference was held and that it is progress. It is not like 2008 when nothing happened. Therefore, I maintain my answer.

IBP Comment: After review of the Minister’s press conference and peer reviewer’s comments, IBP editors chose answer “d.” The press conference has no analysis of the tax burden.

Comment:
The Executive provided the public a document that describes the 2009 budget and its proposals, but the document is too much of a summary.

Researcher Response to this Question was “c”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: It is a 3-page document with a fair number of details. A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.”

Researcher Response: I acknowledge that this document contains worthwhile information (even for the citizens), but it is too much of a summary in terms of a “citizens’ budget:” (i) the words it uses, although they are sometimes simple, are still quite technical; (ii) this summary, in three A5-format pages, or one and a half pages in A4 format, is a summary of a document that contains several hundred pages. Moreover, the government would not make much more of an effort if, for so little, it were to receive a better grade, while we advocate for the citizens’ budget.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “b” after reviewing both the peer reviewer’s and researcher’s comments to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Calendrier des travaux d'élaboration du projet du budget 2010 (2010 draft budget preparation work timetable)

Comment:
The timetable, signed June 20, 2009, and made public on the Internet that same month, does not specifically address providing information on the executive's budget to the public. But this timetable sets the period from August 24 to 29, 2009 for “the approval of the preliminary draft budget by the government,” from August 31 to September 5 for “the finalization of the work on and formatting of the 2010 budget” and September 15 for “the submission of the 2010 draft budget to Parliament. However, the Minister of the Budget held a press conference on the executive's draft on September 14, three months after the timetable was published.

The government generally observed its timetable, which is unprecedented as far as we know. The draft budget was approved by the Council of Ministers at its August 28, 2009 meeting (the timetable established the period from August 24 to 29, 2009 for this); however, it did miss submitting the budget to Parliament on September 14 as scheduled.

Comment:
The legislative committee’s sessions (Economic and Financial Committee) of the National Assembly or the Senate are held behind closed doors according to their respective bylaws. In principle, when the Committee takes the executive’s testimony, it is in an advisory capacity (Article 81 paragraph 1). The only recent report on such an issue dates back to February 2010, but this report was never debated in Parliament. For this reason, just like other similar reports (the report known as the “Lutundula” report and the “Bakandeja” report, both of which are on the pillaging of the country’s resources and financial embezzlement), it received no binding force against the culprits.

This year my interview was with a national deputy who asked to remain anonymous.

Comment:
According to the deputy who asked to remain anonymous, the supplements should be obtained as part of a “supplemental budget” from the legislature. However, this procedure has seldom been used in the DRC’s budget history. This year, there was no supplemental budget despite the strong depreciation of the currency, making it impossible to coherently execute the 2009 budget.

Indeed, the budget was enacted counting on a parity of 580 Congolese francs (FC) for $1. Today, the dollar is above FC 850 (see also the article by Jean-Marie KAMBUA, “Assèchement des Finances Publiques: le Gouvernement Muzito compte solliciter un collectif budgétaire au Parlement,” at http://www.digitalcongo.net/article/58403).

Comment:
According to the Secretary General, the practice dictated by the former legislation is still in effect in the organization and operation of the Cour des Comptes (SAI). Indeed, the Constitution is unclear as to whether the approval requested of the National Assembly for the appointment or dismissal of the President of the SAI is a “final” (or binding) approval for the President of the Republic (who has the authority to appoint). We note that since the adoption of the new Constitution, the case has not yet arisen. That is why the answer is “a,” for the benefit of the doubt.

Comment:
Evolution since the 2008 OBI: according to the Secretary General, the SAI determines the budget and the General Assembly votes on it. But the execution rate by the executive remains very low.

The auditing system, particularly in the Cour des Comptes (SAI), should be strengthened.

According to the procedure in this area, the Cour des Comptes (SAI), which still has insufficient funding to carry out its mandate effectively, must still wait for the government to supplies it, traditionally several years late, with its "rapport annuel d'exécution du budget" (annual budget execution report). After the report is received, the SAI reviews it with limited means and makes its observations in the form of "comments" which are submitted in the form of a "Projet de Loi portant Arrêt des Comptes et Règlement définitif du budget de l'Etat pour l'exercice..." (Draft Law on the Closing of the Accounts and the Final Establishment of the Government Budget for fiscal year ...) to the National Assembly. After reviewing it, the National Assembly enacts it in the form of a "Loi portant Arrêt des Comptes et Règlement définitif du budget de l'Etat pour l'exercice..." (Draft Law on the Closing of the Accounts and the Final Establishment of the Government Budget for fiscal year ...).

Does the Supreme Audit Institution employ designated staff for undertaking audits of the central government agencies pertaining to the security sector (military, police, intelligence services)?

a. The SAI employs designated staff, and the staffing levels are broadly consistent with the resources the SAI needs to fulfill its mandate.
b. The SAI employs designated staff, but the staffing levels are a cause of some constraints to the SAI in fulfilling its mandate.
c. The SAI employs designated staff, but the staffing levels pose a significant constraint on the SAI in fulfilling its mandate.
d. The SAI does not employ designated staff for auditing of the security sector, or does not undertake audits of the security sector.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
The Cour des Comptes (SAI) consists has three sections. There is no special section for the army, police or security services. However, when they are audited, the SAI appoints a team from among its magistrates.

Researcher Response to this Question was “b”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” The DRC administration and government still have massive problems obtaining a meaningful overview, which is essential for accurate planning, and they still face massive problems in communication about what they know, what they aspire to, etc. The audit process is still embryonic. The off-budget revenue and expenditure still pose a massive problem to public finance.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d” as there is no designated staff in the meaning of the question but general staff assigned to this audit.

Researcher Response: My comments acknowledge that there is no special section for the army, but when the army, police or security services are audited, the task is assigned to the magistrates (civil servants) of one or the other of the three sections of the SAI, as was the case during the audits in 2007-2008, the report for which, unfortunately, was never completed, was published by the Ministry of the Budget (see http://www.ministeredubudget.cd/audit_cour_comptes.html). It is true that the operations of the Office are very poor. If question 118 seeks to strictly establish whether or not there are permanent civil servants for the army ..., the answer is “d;” otherwise, I would answer “b,” and “c” if absolutely necessary.

IBP Comment: After review of both peer reviewers’ comments, IBP editors chose answer “d” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Comment:
These formal mechanisms do not exist. They may be expected after the current reforms. Two reasons may justify this: on the one hand, the SAI’s hearings occur behind closed doors, and the SAI does not tend to open itself to the public; on the other hand, the public considers the SAI an exclusively governmental institution, in other words, one that has no relationship to or with the public.

Comment:
There has been no change since the OBI 2008 research cycle: there is not an audit report per se. Often the governmental budget execution report for a fiscal year, which includes the SAI’s comments, is analyzed by the Economic and Financial Committee of each of the two houses of Parliament during the budget session. Since the executive’s budget is often submitted late, with unreliable data, the Committee often has insufficient time to carefully review the report that is submitted to it. Moreover, although the SAI’s observations on the “Compte général de la République” (General Account of the Republic) are published in the Official Gazette after the National Assembly adopts them, none of these “General Accounts,” combined with the Office’s observations, has resulted in a law to date on the decree of the General Account of the Republic as the Constitution requires (Article 173).

Additional Comments:

Budget transparency is still at a low level in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, but is definitely improving. There are encouraging aspects, while others require additional effort.

A. ENCOURAGING ASPECTS

Several signals from the government have recently encouraged our efforts to improve budget transparency.

Indeed, for several months the President of the Republic and the government have demonstrated the will to resolutely fight corruption. This has resulted, among other things, in dismissing several magistrates and officials convicted of corruption or other similar offenses.

This year the government initiated fiscal reforms and, as a result of lobbying based on the results of the 2008 OBI, agreed to closely involve civil society in this work. Eleven experts, civil society leaders who received capacity-building training by the DRC’s IBP Researcher, are active members of the six task forces set up for this purpose since August 2009 and until November 2009, when the government will take ownership of the action plan for this reform in order to implement it.

Meanwhile, as a result of the steadfast advocacy carried out by the DRC’s IBP Researcher with the government, the full details of the enacted 2009 budget have been uploaded to the website, including the quarterly budget execution reports of January-June 2009 (this is unprecedented). Many other budget documents were uploaded as well.

In his press conference on the executive’s 2010 budget, the Minister of the Budget emphasized that it was "out of concern for transparency" that he held this press conference.

Efforts should be made to strengthen this political will.

B. ASPECTS THAT REQUIRE ADDITIONAL EFFORT

The auditing system, particularly in the SAI, which is the supreme auditing institution, should be strengthened.

Indeed, according to procedure, the Cour des Comptes (SAI) does not always have sufficient funding to carry out its mandate effectively, and must always wait for the government to release its "rapport annuel d'exécution du budget" (annual budget execution report) which is often several years late.

After the report is received, the SAI reviews it with limited means and makes its observations in the form of “comments” which are submitted in the form of a "Projet de Loi portant Arrêt des Comptes et Règlement définitif du budget de l'Etat pour l'exercice..." (Draft Law on the Closing of the Accounts and the Final Establishment of the Government Budget for fiscal year ...) to the National Assembly. After review, the National Assembly enacts it in the form of a "Loi portant Arrêt des Comptes et Règlement définitif du budget de l'Etat pour l'exercice...." (draft law on the closing of the accounts and the final establishment of the government budget for fiscal year ...).
In practice, in this process, the SAI relies on the government for its work; until now, its comments have never been converted into law, even though they have been reviewed by the National Assembly and published in the Official Gazette of the RDC. Thus, to date its comments and any audits are not binding on the institutions or the parties at fault.
