Section Two: The Executive’s Budget Proposal

Notes on abbreviations:
BY = budget year (year for which the budget proposals are being made)
BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year
BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Please mark your answer by placing the appropriate letter in the box to the right of the question. For all answers marked “not applicable/other,” please provide a brief explanation indicating either why the answer choices provided are not applicable or why another response would be more appropriate.
1. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by administrative unit (that is, by ministry, department, or agency)?

   a. All expenditures are classified by administrative unit.
   b. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but some small units are not shown separately.
   c. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but a significant number of units are not shown separately.
   d. No expenditures classified by administrative unit are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
It is worth mentioning that the data is not consolidated (i.e. it does not include National and sub national governments). The information provided only accounts for the National/Federal government. As Argentina is a federal country where a considerable share of social spending is decentralized, the fact that the information is not in a consolidated manner (taking into account all levels of government) affects the possible analysis of the data. This comment is valid for all the questions involving fiscal data.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: The information accounts only for the Central government as Argentina is a federal country where considerable share of total (and especially social) spending is decentralized.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
2. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by functional classification?

   a. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards.
   b. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards.
   c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by function.
   d. No expenditures classified by function are presented.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   Comment:
   Even though the information is divided according to the Administrative Unit that manages the program, under "Detalle jurisdicción entidad" is possible to get detailed information on every program. Therefore, an “a” answer would be the most appropriate.

5. In the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation, are estimates of the aggregate level of expenditure presented for a multi-year period (at least two years beyond the budget year)?

   a. Yes, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are presented.
   b. No, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are not presented.
   c. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   Citation:
   The estimates are available in the Executive's message (Mensaje de elevación), section 5.2.2. Expenditure projections.

   Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
6. In the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation, is more detail than just the aggregate level presented for expenditure estimates that cover a multi-year period (for at least two years beyond the budget year)?

   a. Yes, multi-year expenditure estimates are presented for all individual programs, and for one or more expenditure classification (such as functional, economic, or administrative).
   b. Yes, multi-year estimates are presented for one or more expenditure classification (such as functional, economic, or administrative), but only for some individual programs.
   c. Yes, multi-year estimates are presented, but only for a portion of one or more of the expenditure classifications (such as some functions, or some administrative units) and/or for only some individual programs.
   d. No, multi-year estimates are presented for aggregate expenditure only, or they are not presented at all.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In the executive’s budget (mensaje de remisión) appears information on economic classification (pag. 229-230). More information is available in the multi-annual budget which is usually presented once the budget law has been approved.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
A more appropriate response to this question would be “d” even though the Executive does summit to the Congress a pluri annual budget that does include information about macroeconomics, detailed revenue collection, aggregate expenditure and fiscal results, it is not submitted by the time the budget proposal is under consideration in the Congress. For example, the 2007 multi-annual budget was submitted to the Congress in March 2007

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
7. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation identify the different sources of tax revenue (such as income tax or VAT) for the budget year?

a. All sources of tax revenue are identified individually.
b. Sources of tax revenue amounting to at least two-thirds of, but not all, tax revenues are identified individually.
c. Sources of tax revenue amounting to less than two-thirds of all tax revenues are identified individually.
d. No sources of tax revenue are identified individually.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

   The answer is “b” rather than “a” because it covers only the automatic transfers.

   Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “a.” The information on intergovernmental transfers is present in two sections of the Executive’s Message: In an aggregated manner in section 3.1.1 and with more detail (by tax and province) in section 5.2 - multi annual projections. It is worth noticing that these transfers are not approved in the Budget as they are regulated by other instruments.

   IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.

The National Office for Budget publishes manuals (glossary) that includes thorough definitions such as the two links above that are available online to the public. However, the language is too technical for lay persons to follow. The Glossary for the Citizen is a useful tool but lacks important details.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: The NOB publishes the manuals (glossary) but they are available to the public but they are too technical. Even though, there is a less technical glossary in the website http://sg.mecon.ar/ejecucion/ that is oriented for citizens, as was mentioned above.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: Many definitions included in the Glossary can be understood easily. Nevertheless, it is possible that some of them need a detailed explanation for non-specialists.
63. Do citizens have the right in law to access government information, including budget information?

a. Yes, the right has been codified into law, and citizens are generally able in practice to obtain government information, including budget information.

There is no Law of Access to Public Information, but there is a presidential decree which rules on these matters and that only applies to the National Executive Government, which we consider "in law" (even though it can be revoked by the President). Taking into account our experience in several projects on transparency of information, it is more possible to obtain financial information as an NGO than as an individual citizen despite the fact that theoretically, there should not be any difference. The release date is set for September 15th of each year based on Law 24156. However, generalized access occurs a few days later. The information is uploaded on the Ministry of Economy website several days after the executive project is presented in Congress. In 2002 the executive's budget was presented in February 2002 because of the economic crisis that rendered the Budget presented in September 2001 completely useless.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: The above statement is slightly misleading. A version of the budget project was submitted to the Congress by the Executive in September 17th 2001 but as the government changed abruptly a new proposal was submitted on February 6th 2002.

Comment:
The dates for the executive's budget presentation and for the approval by Congress are set by law. The Congress is not forced to approve it. In the case this happens, BY-1 budget stays in effect.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: The Financial Administration Law only states when the proposal from the Executive has to be submitted to the Congress but does not establish that the Budget has to be approved by a certain date. The Law also includes detailed measures how the government should operate in the case that the Budget were not approved by the beginning of the fiscal year.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:
68. Does the executive adhere to its timetable for the preparation and release of the budget?

   a. The executive adheres to the dates in its timetable.
   b. The executive adheres to most of the key dates in its timetable.
   c. The executive has difficulty adhering to most of the dates in its timetable.
   d. The executive does not adhere to the dates in its timetable, or it does not release to the public its timetable.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Comment:
Even though the executive adheres to the timetable, in the sense that it complies with the date of deliverance to the Congress, it is not possible to control the internal deadlines. The timetable was not accomplished several times in the last 25 years. The most recent violation took place during the 2002 budget process. From 1995 onwards – the regulating law was approved in 1992 - the Executive presented the proposal later than the established dates in 1995 and 2001.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: From 1995 onwards – the regulating law was approved in 1992 - the Executive presented the proposal later than the established dates in 1995 and 2001. The delay in both cases was than less than one week. As was mentioned above, the 2002 budget was presented again in February 2002 because of the economic crisis.

Comment:
The most relevant cases of problems in the procurement of goods and services are the ones cited. It is difficult to decide between "c" and "b." We will accept the reviewer's decision.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:
A more appropriate response to this question would be “c.”

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “c.”

Even if it is true that the quantities of cases of irregularities which are made public are not so many, it should be noted that those that were published are of a very significant dimension. Added to Skanska, the Government is also questioned for irregularities in the distribution of official publicity between 2004 and 2007. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “c” to maintain consistency across countries.
98. When does the legislature typically approve supplemental budgets?

a. Supplemental budgets are approved before the funds are expended, or the executive rarely proposes a supplemental budget (please specify).
b. Supplemental budgets are approved after the funds are expended, or the executive implements supplemental budgets without ever receiving approval from the legislature (please specify).
c. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
Supplemental budgets should be approved by law, but in practice they are always implemented through Necessity Decrees that are later approved by the Congress. The issue is that there is a big backlog in the approvals of the Necessity Decrees by the Congress, so the resolutions might come after the fiscal year was over.

It is difficult to answer this question because the behavior has changed a lot since the economic recovery in 2003. As the government started to underestimate its revenues, the supplemental budgets became larger. In 2007 the answer would have been d, as a result of changes in the pension system.

| 101. How long after the end of the budget year does the executive release to the public a year-end report that discusses the budget’s actual outcome for the year? | a. The report is released six months or less after the end of the fiscal year.
b. The report is released 12 months or less (but more than six months) after the end of the fiscal year.
c. The report is released more than 12 months after the end of the fiscal year.
d. The executive does not release a year-end report.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment). |          | It should be published six months after the end of the fiscal year, but usually it is published later. The report is available to the public and it is published in the month of June of year AP+1. For example for year 2006 the report message can be checked at: http://www.mecon.gov.ar/hacienda/cgn/cuenta/2006/tomoi/01mensaje.htm
The Contaduría General de la Nación only provides the general public sector balance and does not conduct any research on expenditures and budgetary goals. The Congress should approve the End-year report but the last one they approved was the 1998 one. This is due to political decisions. |

El presidente del organismo será designado a propuesta del partido político de oposición con mayor número de legisladores en el Congreso.")

Comment:
There can be administrative summaries against the public servant and it can also lead to political judgment carried out by the Congress. Also, the Judicial authorities can take part if there are denunciations.

115. Does the Supreme Audit Institution release to the public audits of extra-budgetary funds?

   a. Yes, the SAI releases to the public audits of all extra-budgetary funds.
   b. Yes, the SAI releases audits representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, extra-budgetary funds.
   c. Yes, the SAI releases audits representing less than two-thirds of all extra-budgetary funds.
   d. No, the SAI does not release to the public audits of extra-budgetary funds, or it does not audit such funds, or such a report was released more than 24 months after the end of the fiscal year.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Several examples of audits of extra-budgetary funds can be found in the SAI webpage. We provide the link to one of them (Federal Infrastructure Fund): http://www.agn.gov.ar/informes/informesPDF2006/2006_242.pdf

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.” Even if it is true that most of the extra budgetary funds are audited, not all of those included in the budget were audited during last year. For example, Software Industry Fund, Recovery Bovine Activity Fund and FONAPYME weren’t audited.

116. Beyond the established year-end attestation audits, does the Supreme Audit Institution (SAI) have the discretion in law to undertake those audits it may wish to?

   a. The SAI has full discretion to decide which audits it wishes to undertake.
   b. The SAI has significant discretion, but faces some limitations.
   c. The SAI has some discretion, but faces considerable limitations.
   d. The SAI has no discretion to decide which audits it wishes to undertake.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In Argentina the audit authority is headed by the opposition. But the board of directors that takes all decisions is confirmed by members both from the ruling party members and from the opposition (which are a minority when voting). The Auditoria General de la Nación audits the expenditures referred in Art. 118 of Law 24.156, with a planning that will point out the control areas and the resources for each of them, defined on the basis of importance, significance and risk.

   Comment:
   By law, the government is not obliged to take remedial respect to the audits. This is a regulatory shortcoming. Moreover, audits have been commonly presented with significant delays to governments that were already different from those responsible for the Audit's findings.

Regarding the army and police, the SAI is empowered to produce reports and deliver them to the legislature. As we stated earlier, this is not the case regarding the intelligence services.

Researcher Additional Comments:
We would like to bring up and call your attention the following four items since the questionnaire did not seem to capture the real transparency problems.

1) Spending consolidation: Given the federal nature of Argentina's political system, a considerable share of spending - particularly social spending - is executed by subnational governments. The information on this spending is not published with as much consistency, in terms of quality, detail and timing, as the national spending information. Even though individual spending programs are presented, some of them are so broad that they do not permit a thorough analysis.

2) The Legislature has yielded budgetary powers to the Chief of Cabinet (Executive Power). In 2006 the Legislature gave attributes to the Chief of Cabinet - attributes which allow him to make changes in the budget without the Congress's approval, making it possible to change spending within categories, but still limiting the ability to change the fiscal result or the total amount of spending. This measure, which changes the distribution of power established by the Law of Financial Administration, empowers the government branch that was already the most prominent in the process. Doing so may have pernicious consequences on budget transparency. We must specify though, that the restrictions which are still imposed to the Executive branch regarding budget changes can be avoided by the President by issuing a decree. (decretos de necesidad y urgencia).

3) Regarding the Citizens Budget. The Ministry of Finance has a webpage which intends to present a Citizen Budget. Nevertheless the information provided is not adequate. Please see http://www.mecon.gov.ar/consulta/index0a.html

4) The final comment relates to the controversy about the macroeconomic projections used by the Executive. Key macroeconomic variables such as GDP growth and inflation have been underestimated during previous years. This is due to both political and economic reasons. Underestimating the GDP - and consequently the revenues - allows the National Executive to assign a portion of the extra revenues with a higher level of discretion. Underestimating inflation is more related to the intention of avoiding to fuel inflation by reducing inflation expectations.
