Comment:
Researcher’s Response to this Question was “a”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b.” It is hard to recognize if the expenditure classification is according to the international standards.

Researcher Response: I chose my answer “a” because the question asks about economic classification, there is nothing about using international standards. I agree that the Czech classification may differ from international standards, but the question is not specific in this aspect.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

c. Program-level expenditure data are presented, but for less than two-thirds of expenditures for BY-1.
d. No program-level expenditure data are presented for BY-1.

There is missing information about other types of quasi-fiscal activities such as tax holidays for foreign investors.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “c”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: If state guarantees do not count as ‘quasi-fiscal activities’ (they are dealt with in question 42), answer (“d” instead of “c”?) and comment should be reconsidered.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment:

Researcher Response: I chose my answer “c,” because both possibilities are fine with me and the final answer should correspond to that of other countries. The Guide offers a possibility to understand a state guarantee as a support outside of this year budget and it will enter the budget in the future. This was a case of many state guarantees issued in the Czech Republic. Therefore, if the agreement of the IBP staff is not different I would include state guarantees here and leave “c.”

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Comment:
The document presents the overview of financial assets, lists its main categories and presents their value in January 2006 and estimates the value at the end of 2007 (= changes during recent year and planned changes for budget year). Comment:
This part discusses the mandatory expenditures (i.e. entitlements), including future liabilities from these programs. However, this is not done systematically for all the existing programs.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “b.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “c.” Information provided is based on forecasts, but there is no detailed presumption and basis for the forecast. Also space used for such important thing as future liabilities is pretty small. Described future liabilities is only limited to pensions and health (sickness) insurance.

Researcher Response: I choose to keep my answer “b.” I agree with the comment of the referee. The decision between “b” and “c” is partly subjective. However, it is important to note, that the situation did not change since 2006, thus if I put “c,” than somebody unfamiliar with the details could make wrong assumption. Thus, the information presented are far from extensive, however, are the same over the past few years.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Comment:
The changes of the expenditures from year to year are explained by changes in the policy. However, the level of particular expenditure (either for administrative unit of function) is not linked to the policy goals.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” Presented information is not important or significant in long run.

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer “c.” I have a similar answer as 43. However in this case, my comment describes the situation very clearly and there is some information, even when not systematic or complete.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.
49. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation explain how the proposed budget is linked to government’s stated policy goals for a multi-year period (for at least two years beyond the budget year)?

a. Yes, extensive information on the link between the budget and the government’s stated policy goals over a multi-year period is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the major policy goals, but some details are excluded.
c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
d. No, information on the link between the budget and the government’s stated policy goals over a multi-year period is not presented.
e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
In the budget outlook, some information are presented but not in a systematic way.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” Presented information is not important or significant in long run.

Researcher Response: I chose to keep my answer “c.” See previous question.
Comparing to the time before the budget outlook started to be elaborated the amount of information has increased a lot. “d” would mean that there is really nothing and it would not be true. On the other hand we are very, very far from “b.”

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “c” to maintain the consistency of the assumptions used in selecting answers across the countries.

Comment:
Only the impact of tax changes is discussed, but not the general impact of the different taxes. All bills (including the tax bills) contain a commentary that discusses their impact on the distribution of the tax burden. See www.psp.cz for all the bills.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “c.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” There is no general analysis of distribution of tax burden. You can find fragmented details as is stated in researchers’ comments.

The law on Free Access to Information (Act #106/1999 Coll.) gives citizens the right to obtain information about the activity of the government bodies, including budget information. Some agencies put their budgets on the Internet, some do not. However, the government claims that the law on free access to information is fulfilled. In fact, this depends on the agencies, some answer all the questions promptly and some do not.

Ministry of Finance is not allowed to change the budget submitted by the SAI; if the government disagrees with the SAI budget then the Chamber of Deputies Budgetary Committee decides on its size within 15 days on the request of the government (Budgetary Rules, Art 8.)

120. Does a committee of the legislature view and scrutinize the audit reports?

- a. Yes, all audit reports are scrutinized.
- b. Yes, most audit reports are scrutinized.
- c. Yes, some audit reports are scrutinized.
- d. No, audit reports are not scrutinized.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment: According to the Act 166/93 Coll, art. 30, the SAI submits immediately all the relevant audit reports to the Parliament. Annual reports (Annex 4) provide the summary of all audit reports. The responsible sub-committee surely receives reports but based on its limited activities we would conclude that only some reports are really scrutinized.

Peer Reviewer One Comment: Answer is not entirely relevant. More important in this respect is that the Parliamentary Sub-committee for financial control in public administration appears to be totally inactive.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: Some reports are only just read or “rewritten.” Not scrutinized. Insufficient.

121. Does the executive make available to the public a report on what steps it has taken to address audit recommendations or findings that indicate a need for remedial action?

- a. Yes, the executive reports publicly on what steps it has taken to address audit findings.
- b. Yes, the executive reports publicly on most audit findings.
- c. Yes, the executive reports publicly on some audit findings.
- d. No, the executive does not report on steps it has taken to address audit findings.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Comment:
The electronic archives provide government decisions where the government usually only acknowledges SAI conclusions and asks the responsible body to follow the recommendations. However, quite often the ministry concerned comments publicly on the conclusions.

    c. Yes, a report is released, but it lacks important details.

Comment:
Security Committee receives these reports because they discuss the year-end budget of e.g. Intelligence Units.
It is hard to assess how detailed these reports are.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “d.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: It is provided only to members of security committee of the House of Deputies.

Researcher Response: I choose to change my answer to “b.”
Citation and comments modified as well as the answer. As it is impossible to say if the reports are detailed enough we opt for “b.”

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “b” in light of the information provided by the researcher and peer reviewers.

Peer Reviewer Two Additional Comments: I have strictly gone through all the sources provided by questionnaire authors. Except several cases (see my comments) I am in full consent with the authors. Their statements are supported with relevant documents.

On the other hand I am very skeptical on accuracy of the data provided by Czech authorities. The major problem of it is that public sector does not have any specific accountancy rules and does not use comparative accounting methods. There is no clear evidence of public property and liabilities. The public sector is missing central auditors & accountant court or institution in the meaning of providing comparative and accurate data to both public and private users.
