While PSDP presents program-wise information for development expenditures and Pink Book provides data on current expenditures, it is difficult to determine the new current expenditures associated with the various programs in the PSDP. There is a general concern about coordination between the development budget and its link with the current budget. Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the question does not explicitly asking the linkages between development and current expenditures. Therefore, we would like to retain our answer. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain the consistency of the data across the countries.	C

See Economic Survey of Pakistan p.77 Table 5.14 which shows the debt data up to FY07 (end-March). i.e. Three months before the start of budget year. Further, the Explanatory Memorandum on Federal Receipts gives the net borrowing requirement for permanent debt (long term debt) [p.60], floating (short-term) debt [p. 63], unfunded debt [p. 67] and foreign currency permanent debt [p. 62]. The net borrowing requirement from multilateral donors, other countries and euro bond issues is missing. Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the question is asking about the debt liabilities for the upcoming fiscal budget year. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" consistent with the peer reviewers observation that the net borrowing requirement from multilateral donors, other countries and euro bond issues is missing	C

12. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present interest payments on the debt for the budget year? a. 13. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present information related to the composition of government debt (such as interest rates on the debt, maturity profile of the debt, currency denomination of the debt, or whether it is domestic and external debt) for the budget year?
- a. Yes, extensive information related to the composition of government debt is presented.
  - b. Yes, key additional information is presented, but some details are excluded.
  - c. Yes, some additional information is presented, but it lacks important details.
  - d. No, additional information related to the composition of government debt is not presented.
  - e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Federal Budget in Brief 2007-08 page 15 presents a profile of external resources; on page 20 information on interest payment on foreign and domestic debt is available, and on page 13 it provides information on profits from internal receipts.

Comment:

Researcher's Response to this Question was "a."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b." Although budget documents provide a summary of resources available and interest payment requirements, the focus is on the flow rather than stock of debt. The Economic Survey of Pakistan (07-08) [p. 81, 82 and 150] presents data on composition of debt in terms of long-term, short-term and unfunded. The currency denomination of external debt is not made public. The functional classification for external debt is non-standard.

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the focus is on the stock of debt not the flow of debt.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "b" to maintain the consistency of the data across the countries.

14. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present the macroeconomic forecast upon which the budget projections are based?
- a. Yes, an extensive discussion of the macroeconomic forecast is presented, and key assumptions (such as inflation, real GDP growth, unemployment rate, and interest rates) are stated explicitly.
  - b. Yes, the macroeconomic forecast is discussed and most of the key assumptions are stated explicitly, but some details are excluded.
  - c. Yes, there is some discussion of the macroeconomic forecast (and/or the presentation of key assumptions), but it lacks important details.
  - d. No, information related to the macroeconomic forecast is not presented.
  - e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

PRSP-II presents the macro-economic forecast of the budget year, pages 21-A and 21-B.

Comment:

Researcher's Response to this Question was "a."

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "c." Although some macroeconomic forecasts are presented in the PRSP-II it is unclear how they are derived. Further, the link between the macroeconomic forecasts and the budget is missing. No projections of BY GDP are included in the budget documents. The Economic Survey of Pakistan, which is the flagship economic publication of the budget process, does not provide the macroeconomic framework nor is it discussed as part of the budget.

Researcher Response: I chose my answer because PRSP-II is also a publication of Ministry of Finance, Government of Pakistan and extensively referred for research by Government, Donors, etc. Therefore, we should take the document as authentic. The question of derivation is answered in the text of PRSP-II.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain the consistency of the data across the countries.

15. The discussion is very superficial and no details are provided. Budget Speech FY08, para.74-94 discuss revenue policy changes but do not dwell on how much of a revenue change is expected. There is limited accounting for tax expenditures in Pakistan. Researcher Response: I chose my answer because the proposals are presented in percentage increase in the total revenues. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain the consistency of the data across the countries.	c
