Comment:
More detailed than just the aggregate level expenditures are presented in the Executive's Budget Proposal (Predlog proračuna - Načrt razvojnih programov).

Peer Reviewer One Comment: The so-called “development budget” provides four-year estimates for capital and project spending at a very detailed level. The term “project” is not precisely defined. The Slovene Parliament approves two budget laws each year: in late 2007 for 2008 and 2009; in late 2008 for 2009 (revision) and 2010, etc.

Estimates of the aggregate level of revenue are presented for a multi-year period (at least two years beyond the budget year) are presented in the Budget Memorandum. More detailed estimates are provided by the Ministry of Finance for internal use. <td>Comment: The impact of several scenarios on macroeconomic assumptions is prepared internally by the Ministry of Finance when preparing the Budget Memorandum. The Budget Memorandum discusses the chosen scenario in details. However, in the Budget memorandum, the assumptions are listed (about inflation, employment etc.), but only for the scenario which is chosen as a base for the Budget memorandum. There is no detailed discussion on sensitivity.</td>

Comment:
Information that shows how policy proposals in the budget, as distinct from existing policies, affect expenditure are presented for different policy areas at Executive’s Budget Proposal (Predlog proračuna - Obrazložitev splošnega dela proračuna). The discussion of policy impacts is fairly cursory. However, the benchmark is not clear in this area.

   d. No sources of donor assistance are identified individually.
   e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation:

Comment:
Slovenia does not receive much donor assistance, practically the only source of revenue from abroad being the EU budget.

Researcher’s response to this question was “e.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “c.” Although the amount of donor assistance, excluding the EU, is modest, there are some small donors, for instance to schools and hospitals and these are not identified individually.

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d,” if this information is not available. Even if donor assistance is insignificant, it should be visible from the budget. In public many times discussions about the acquired EU grants is taking place and this way the residents cannot double check the amounts of donated funds. Since Slovenia is paying contributions to EU, the residents should have the opportunity to double check the allowances acquired from the EU (i.e. if EU grants are considered donor assistance).

Researcher Response:
Whether we consider EU funds as donor assistance then the answer “a” is appropriate, since all data on EU funds are available. Whether we take into account other smaller donors, as Peer Reviewer One comments (for example individual donors to hospitals) then they are not included in central government budget, since they are based on private agreement between the donor and receiver. In this case “c” is appropriate. I suggest that we retain with “e.”

In this case "a" is then appropriate, since there are aggregated and detailed data (at the level of ministries and agencies) about EU funds. Data from the EU funds are an integral part of the budget:
Enacted Budget (Sprejeti proračun)
- General part (Splošni del) / Explanation of general part (Obrazložitev splošnega dela proračuna)
- Special part (Posebni del) / Explanation of general part (Obrazložitev posebnega dela proračuna)

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer, “a” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.

Comment: Earmarked revenues are not a common type of government revenues. The ones that exist (for example social security contribution for unemployment insurance paid to the central government budget) are identified individually among the other budget revenues. Others, which are collected by indirect budget users (schools, hospitals, universities and autonomous institutions/agencies), are recorded in the Bulletin of Government Finance, not in the Executive Budget.

a. Yes, public hearings are held on the macroeconomic and fiscal framework in which testimony is heard from the executive branch and a wide range of constituencies.
b. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony is heard from the executive branch and some constituencies.
c. Yes, hearings are held in which testimony from the executive branch is heard, but no testimony from the public is heard.
d. No, public hearings are not held on the macroeconomic and fiscal framework in which testimony from the executive branch and the public is heard.

Comment:
At public hearings, representatives of the Ministry of Finance, Central Bank and Institute for Macroeconomic Analyses and Development are presented. The legislative committee has a right to invite other independent institutions too.

Researcher’s Response to this Question was “a.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: According to the law only executive and legislative branch debate the budget at the public hearing, and not the public itself. Before selecting the right response I would need to know what constituencies the researcher had in mind when selecting the answer “a.”

Researcher Response:
The Institute for Macroeconomic Analysis and Development if financed by the government and its director is appointed by the government - from this point of view it is less independent than the central bank. But as I said before, other institutions might be invited to testimony as well.

IBP Comment: IBP reviewers chose answer “b” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.
76. Do legislative committees hold public hearings on the individual budgets of central government administrative units (that is, ministries, departments, and agencies) in which testimony from the executive branch is heard?

b. Yes, hearings are held, covering key administrative units, in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.
c. Yes, a limited number of hearings are held in which testimony from the executive branch is heard.
