Section Two: The Executive's Budget Proposal

Notes on abbreviations:

BY = budget year (year for which the budget proposals are being made)

BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year

BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Please mark your answer by placing the appropriate letter in the box to the right of the question. For all answers marked “not applicable/other,” please provide a brief explanation indicating either why the answer choices provided are not applicable or why another response would be more appropriate.

The Executive’s Budget Proposal
Estimates for the Budget Year and Beyond
1. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by administrative unit (that is, by ministry, department, or agency)? a. All expenditures are classified by administrative unit. b. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but some small units are not shown separately. c. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but a significant number of units are not shown separately. d. No expenditures classified by administrative unit are presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The information is classified by institution on a central administration level as well as on the decentralized level. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: This tendency seems to continue in the 2005 budget. Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: Agreed, the webpage has comprehensive details http://www.sefin.gob.hn/presupuesto2005/principal.html	a
2. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by functional classification? a. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards. b. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards. c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by function. d. No expenditures classified by function are presented. e. A more direct response can be found in the expenditures section of the 2005 budget. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: A more appropriate response would be "c." In the case of the decentralized sector, the information is not as complete. Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: Using the data presented in this page, there are expenditures per department and certain programs but many of the departments do not list where the money will be spent beyond operational and administrative costs and general categories – in this sense I agree. The link is as follows: http://www.sefin.gob.hn/presupuesto2005/plurianual.html IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "b" to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.	b

11. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present data on the total government debt outstanding for the budget year? a. Yes, the data reflect the outstanding debt both at the start of the budget year and at the end of the budget year (and thereby reflect the net borrowing requirement of the budget). b. Yes, the data reflect the outstanding debt at the end of the budget year. c. Yes, the data reflect the outstanding debt at the start of the budget year. d. 13. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present information related to the composition of government debt (such as interest rates on the debt, maturity profile of the debt, currency denomination of the debt, or whether it is domestic and external debt) for the budget year? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Yes, extensive information related to the composition of government debt is presented. 15. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation show the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions (i.e., sensitivity analysis) on the budget (including expenditures, revenues, and debt)?
- a. Yes, extensive information on the impact of macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
 - b. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the impact of the major macroeconomic assumptions, but some details are excluded.
 - c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details.
 - d. No, information on the impact of different macroeconomic assumptions on the budget is not presented.
 - e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation and/or comment:

Researcher's answer to this question was "c." Currently Honduras does not have an Economic and Social Planning Ministry that allows, through the structuring and execution of a National Development Plan or sectorial development plans, the production of real estimates and forecasts for the main macroeconomic variables. The macroeconomic estimates and forecasts that relate to the budget have a weak support.

Researcher Response to Peer Reviewer: There is a Technical Analysis Unit that belongs to the Presidency's Secretariat that in conjunction with SEFIN's Secretariat and the Central Bank tries to replace the role at that time performed by the Planning Secretariat. Nevertheless, this unit lacks more consolidated information and its base has a weak support. My response is still "c."

Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: A more appropriate response would be "d." It's true that in several documents there is a discussion of the factors that could influence the budget; however there is no sensitivity analysis or anything of that sort.

Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: Agreed – see comment for 14; some PSIA's have been carried out but they are disconnected from the budget /decision making processes. Apart from interaction with the IMF there seem to be few publicly available inputs for this.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.

16. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present information for at least the budget year that shows how policy proposals in the budget, as distinct from existing policies, affect expenditures? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Yes, extensive information on the impact of policy proposals on expenditures is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates. Additional Key Information for Budget Analysis & Monitoring
Please note that the questions in this section ask about information that is generally available to the public. The information need not be included in the executive’s budget proposal or supporting documents, but may be found in other documents issued by the executive.
56. Does the executive make available to the public a description of the tax rate or fee schedule for all revenue sources? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Yes, extensive information on tax rates and fee schedules is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates. Yes, information is presented, highlighting the rates and fees for major revenue sources, but some details are excluded. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: Information is presented on the tax and tariff rates of the sources through with the greatest amount of resources are obtained. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: Peer Reviewer TWO Comment:	b

57. Does the executive make available to the public an analysis of the distribution of the tax burden? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Yes, a detailed analysis of the distribution of the tax burden is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates. b. Yes, an analysis is presented, highlighting key aspects of the distribution, but some details are excluded. c. Yes, some analysis is presented, but it lacks important details. d. No analysis on the distribution of the tax burden is presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The government does not make public the distribution of the tax burden. Civil society argues that the last structural reforms carried out in the country, made the tax system more regressive rather than making it more progressive. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: Agreed. Some PSIA studies have touched this issue but not comprehensively.	d
58. Does the executive make available to the public an explanation of the conditions associated with assistance from international financial institutions (IFI)? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. Yes, extensive information on conditions associated with IFI assistance is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates. b. Yes, information is presented, but some details are excluded. c. Yes, some information is presented, but it lacks important details. d. No, information on conditions associated with IFI assistance is not presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: Researcher’s answer to the question was “d.” The Central Bank’s webpage shows information on the letter of intent signed between the government and the FMI, but details of the conditions that relate to the agreements signed between the government and the WB, the BCIE and IDB are not known. No supporting document shows the conditions associated with the assistance provided by international financial institutions. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: A more appropriate answer to this question would be “c,” since the World Bank and the IMF make public a lot of information while withholding sensitive materials. The executive makes this information available to the media in form of press releases. However in the case of the Inter American Development Bank and the BCIE the details are not public, only announced through newspaper articles and statements on web pages. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “c” to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.	c

106. Does the year-end report, or another document released to the public by the executive (please specify below), explain the difference between the enacted levels (including in-year changes approved by the legislature) and the actual outcome for revenues?

- a. Yes, an extensive explanation of the differences is presented, including both a narrative discussion and quantitative estimates.
- b. Yes, an explanation is presented, highlighting key differences, but some details are excluded.
- c. Yes, some explanation is presented, but it lacks important details.
- d. No, an explanation is not presented, or such a report is not released.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation and/or comment:

Researcher's answer to the question was "b." The 2004 year-end report explains the difference between the enacted levels and the actual outcome of revenues, including in year changes approved by the Parliament.

Researcher Response to Peer Reviewer: I believe that the main taxes, rates and the sale of services that support the attainment of government revenue are sufficiently detailed in the year-end report. Reason why I believe the response should be "b."

Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: A more appropriate response is "c." Significant reductions in certain revenues do not have an explanation beyond a simple description.

Peer Reviewer TWO Comment:

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "b" to maintain consistency with the criteria used for selecting answers across countries.

No, the SAI does not release to the public audits of extra-budgetary funds, or it does not audit such funds. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The country's superior auditing body does not make its annual report public. As such, transparency challenges are still substantial. The creation of the Superior Court of Accounts has not achieved a greater and better level of transparency in the country's social and economic life. If the budget audit is carried out it is not publicly known and is one of the best kept documents that the country has. It is not even made known to a large part of parliament members. Society hopes this situation will change in the short term because a Transparency Law has been presented before congress and once it is approved it is hoped that there will be access to public information so long as it is not confidential. Another action that can favor the role of the Superior Court of Accounts in the future is the budget formulation process that the present government wants to implement. The process gives civil society the opportunity to intervene in the budget process through decentralization by allowing municipalities, which represent the smallest unit on a territorial level, to become involved in the formulation and execution of the budget allowing them more cooperation with society even allowing the creation of social audits. Peer Reviewer ONE Comment: Peer Reviewer TWO Comment: Agreed – no documentation specifically on extra-budgetary funds was located.
