The Government of Bolivia provides the public with scant budget information. Each country is given a score out of 100 which determines its ranking on the Open Budget Index – the world’s only independent and comparative measure of budget transparency.

Bolivia’s score of 17 out of 100 is substantially lower than the global average score of 45.
The Availability of Budget Documents Over Time

Bolivia's score of 17 on the 2015 Open Budget Index is largely the same as its score in 2012.

Since 2012, the Government of Bolivia has increased the availability of budget information by:

- Improving the comprehensiveness of the Year-End Report.

However, the Government of Bolivia has failed to make progress in the following ways:

- Not making the Executive's Budget Proposal available to the public.
- Not making the Pre-Budget Statement available to the public.
- Not publishing the Citizens Budget within three months after the Enacted Budget is published or a Mid-Year Review by September 30 each year.

Evidence suggests that transparency alone is insufficient for improving governance, and that public participation in budgeting can maximize the positive outcomes associated with greater budget transparency.

To measure public participation, the Open Budget Survey assesses the degree to which the government provides opportunities for the public to engage in budget processes. Such opportunities should be provided throughout the budget cycle by the executive, the legislature, and the supreme audit institution.

Bolivia's score of 0 out of 100 indicates that the public is provided with no opportunities to engage in budget processes. This is lower than the global average score of 25.

Elements of Public Participation

- Executive: No
- Legislative: No
- Supreme Audit Institution: No

No
The Open Budget Survey examines the extent to which legislatures and supreme audit institutions are able to provide effective oversight of the budget. These institutions play a critical role – often enshrined in national constitutions – in planning budgets and overseeing their implementation.

Oversight by the Legislature

The legislature provides weak oversight during the planning stage of the budget cycle and adequate oversight during the implementation stage of the budget cycle. The legislature does not have a specialized budget research office, and a pre-budget debate by the legislature does not take place.

Oversight by the Supreme Audit Institution

The supreme audit institution provides limited budget oversight. Under the law, it has full discretion to undertake audits as it sees fit. Moreover, the head of the supreme audit institution cannot be removed without legislative or judicial approval, which bolsters its independence. Finally, the supreme audit institution is provided with insufficient resources to fulfill its mandate and has a weak quality assurance system in place.

Improving Transparency

Bolivia should prioritize the following actions to improve budget transparency:

- Publish the Executive’s Budget Proposal as soon as it’s presented to the National Assembly with all of its volumes and supporting budget documents.
- Publish a Pre-Budget Statement.
- Publish a Citizens Budget within three months of publishing the Enacted Budget and Mid-Year Review by September 30 each year.

Improving Participation

Bolivia should prioritize the following actions to improve budget participation:

- Establish credible and effective mechanisms (i.e., public hearings, surveys, focus groups) for capturing a range of public perspectives on budget matters.
- Hold legislative hearings on the budgets of specific ministries, departments, and agencies as well as on the Audit Reports at which testimony from the public is heard.
- Establish formal mechanisms for the public to assist the supreme audit institution to formulate its audit program and participate in audit investigations.

Improving Oversight

Bolivia should prioritize the following actions to strengthen budget oversight:

- Establish a specialized budget research office for the legislature.
- Ensure the legislature holds public meetings to review Audit Reports.
- Ensure the supreme audit institution has adequate funding to perform its duties, as determined by an independent body (e.g., the legislature or judiciary).

1. According to May 2015 results from the Open budget Survey Tracker (www.obstracker.org), Bolivia failed to publish the 2015 Citizens Budget in a timely manner.
The Open Budget Survey uses internationally accepted criteria developed by multilateral organizations such as the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), and the International Organisation of Supreme Audit Institutions (INTOSAI). It is a fact-based research instrument that assesses what occurs in practice through readily observable phenomena. The entire research process took approximately 18 months between March 2014 and September 2015 and involved about 300 experts in 102 countries. The Survey was revised somewhat from the 2012 version to reflect emerging developments in accepted good practice and to strengthen individual questions. A full discussion of these changes can be found in a technical note on the comparability of the Open Budget Index over time (see below).

Survey responses are typically supported by citations and comments. This may include a reference to a public document, an official statement by the government, or comments from a face-to-face interview with a government official or other knowledgeable party.

The Survey is compiled from a questionnaire completed for each country by independent budget experts who are not associated with the national government. Each country’s questionnaire is then independently reviewed by an anonymous expert who also has no association to government. In addition, IBP invites national governments to comment on the draft results from the Survey and considers these comments before finalizing the Survey results.
